Empire State Information Fluency Continuum

Introduction

Information Fluency Continuum, Benchmark Skills, Assessments

Inquiry is a fundamental building block of teaching and learning that empowers students to follow their sense of wonder into new discoveries and insights about the way the world works. The empowered learner calls upon information/inquiry skills to connect with what he or she knows, ask intriguing questions about what is not known, investigate the answers, construct new understandings, and communicate to share those understandings with others.

Students need to use the skills of inquiry to learn. The Cycle of Inquiry and Learning provides a framework for active learning and the formation of new understandings.

The information and inquiry skills required for in-depth learning must follow a coherent development spiral of instruction and practice throughout the years of schooling, K-12 and beyond, to enable all of our children to become independent life-long learners.

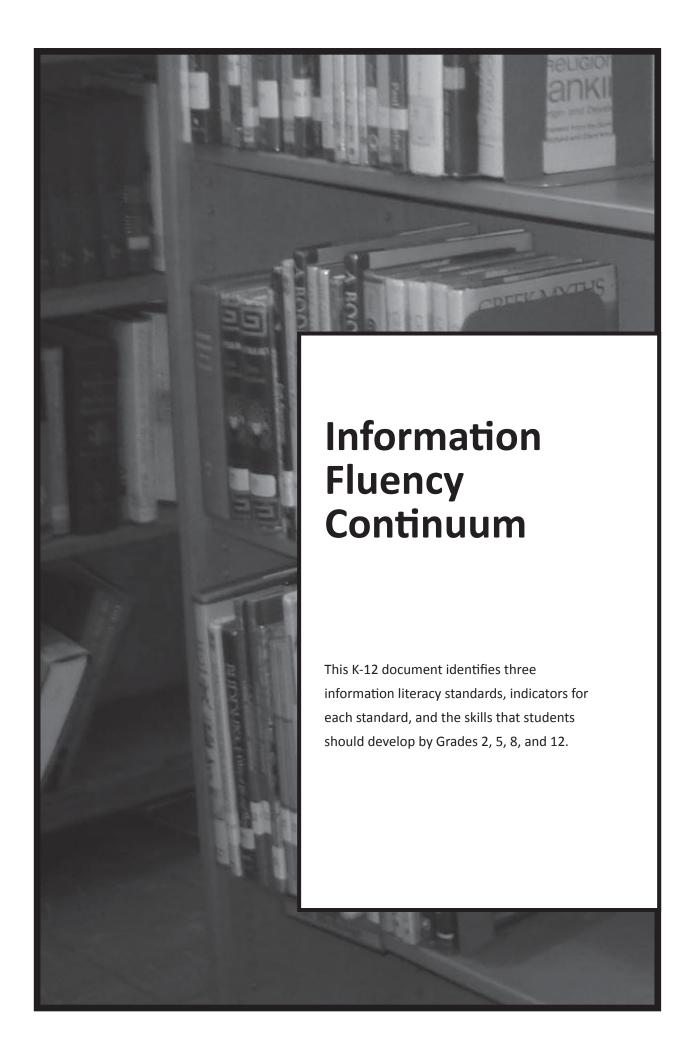

The Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) for literacy establish a framework to ensure that all students graduate college and career ready. The connections between the CCLS and inquiry skills and strategies are multitudinous and strong. It is through the teaching and learning of information fluency skills that our students can meet the Common Core Learning Standards.

The inquiry skills and strategies articulated in the Empire State Information Fluency Continuum (IFC) are aligned with the CCLS and provide opportunities for librarians and teachers to engage in systematic collaborative planning as they incorporate the teaching of inquiry into the implementation of the CCLS through classroom instruction and project based learning.

A collaborative approach by the librarian and the classroom teacher is by far the most effective way to teach information fluency/inquiry skills and strategies to meet the high expectations of the Common Core Learning Standards. This guide contains a series of documents that define the information literacy and inquiry skills that are important for all students to learn.

The documents in this guide include:

- TAB 1: Information Fluency Continuum This K-12 document identifies three information literacy standards, indicators for each standard, and the skills that students should develop by Grades 2, 5, 8, and 12.
- TAB 2: Information Fluency Continuum Benchmark Skills These documents lay out the skills that are benchmarks for the development of information fluency at each grade level, K-12. These charts, organized by K-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-12, are intended to give a coherent picture of information skill development in lower elementary, upper elementary, middle, and high school. Highlighted in bold are the Priority Benchmark Skills which have been pulled into a separate document described below.
- TAB 3: Grade-by-Grade Information Fluency Benchmark Skills These documents, one each for kindergarten through twelfth grade, are the Information Fluency Benchmark Skills from the previous grade-span documents that have been separated into each grade level. These documents will be most helpful for specific grade-level planning by librarians and classroom teachers.
- TAB 4: Information Fluency Continuum: K-12 Priority Benchmark Skills Brochure The information skills that are essential building blocks in students' path to becoming information literate have been identified as Priority Benchmark Skills. This brochure is designed to be pulled out for easy access to the K-12 continuum of Priority Information Fluency Benchmark Skills to help teachers, librarians, and parents see the expected development over the years of schooling.
- TAB 5: Information Fluency Continuum: Priority Benchmark Skills and Assessments This section features the priority benchmarks for each grade level with template assessments for each priority skill. The assessments can be adopted or adapted for use by teachers and librarians who are teaching these essential information skills.
- TAB 6: REACTS Taxonomy This taxonomy offers a variety of authentic products at multiple levels of thought for students to create in response to their inquiry investigations. The verbs and sample products at each level may be used by teachers and librarians to plan project assignments that engage and motivate students to share their learning in creative ways.
- TAB 7: IFC/Common Core Alignment The Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) establish a framework to ensure that all students graduate college and career ready. The skills and strategies articulated in the Information Fluency Continuum (IFC) are aligned with the CCLS and open up opportunities for librarians and teachers to engage in sustained collaborative planning and teaching as they infuse these skills and strategies. The documents in this section include a sample of student work and the IFC/CCLS Alignment

INFORMATION FLUENCY CONTINUUM

Developed by the New York City School Library System

A substantial body of research has emerged in the last 15 years that demonstrates an important and positive relationship between the presence of a good school library and increased student achievement.

- Effective libraries enable students to explore content deeply, pursue their own academic interests, and engage in inquiry—all of which support the development of high-level literacy skills.
- Effective libraries surround students with high-quality, engaging resources, and technology that spark independent learning.
- Effective libraries also serve a unique function in a school as a "public forum for learning" where students can connect to each other and present their work.
- Librarians play a key role in integrating independent learning skills throughout the curriculum by teaching research, inquiry, and technology skills to students and by providing professional development for teachers.

The attached document provides a framework for the instructional aspects of a library program. The framework is based on three standards that form the basis for the skills and strategies essential for students to become independent readers and learners:

- Standard 1: Using Inquiry to Build Understanding and Create New Knowledge
- Standard 2: Pursuing Personal and Aesthetic Growth
- Standard 3: Demonstrating Social Responsibility

This document is called an "Information Fluency Continuum" for very specific reasons. Our young people must go beyond being able to decode information to being able to use appropriate information in any situation; they must be "information fluent" in order to thrive both in and out of school. In addition, like literacy, information fluency must extend in a coherent development continuum throughout the years of schooling, K–12 and beyond.

Information fluency skills and strategies are an integral part of learning in any subject area. They can be most effectively taught by the librarian in collaboration with the classroom teacher, so that students are using these skills to learn essential content. Some of the skills may be incorporated into classroom instruction; others will be most effectively taught in the library setting. Wherever they are taught, these information fluency skills are pivotal in helping all of our children become independent learners.

In the fall of 2010, this Continuum was revised to align with the new AASL national tandards, Standards for the 21st -Century Learner. In 2012, the continuum was aligned with teh Common Core Learning Standards and endorsed by the School Library Systems Association of New York State. The new Empire State Information Fluency Continuum reflects the critical thinking and informations literacy skills today's students need to be college and career ready.

How To Use THE CONTINUUM

If you are an administrator:

- Use the Continuum as a starting point for professional development planning to help all of your teachers become comfortable with integrating information skills into their instructional design.
- Be sure that students have opportunities for inquiry, personal exploration, and independent reading by facilitating open access and flexible scheduling of your library.
- Lead your school through a process of defining the most important skills and strategies for each grade level you serve. Set high expectations for students' information fluency.

If you are a classroom teacher:

- Collaborate with the librarian and other classroom teachers to decide the most important skills to be taught in each grade or subject.
- Design instructional units in collaboration with the librarian that integrate the teaching and application of essential information fluency skills.
- Include the assessment of information fluency skills in all rubrics.
- Actively incorporate student use of multiple resources and technology whenever possible.
- Develop a collaborative relationship with your librarian, so that you both are teaching information fluency skills and all students experience a consistent set of expectations in their use of information.

If you are a librarian or library teacher:

- Assume a leadership role in your school in collaborative planning that integrates the teaching of information fluency throughout the curriculum.
- Figure out which skills to teach and which to scaffold in every lesson.
- Plan the implementation of the Continuum so that all students develop the essential skills at every grade level and so that they build on their skills each year.
- Order high quality resources that enable students to conduct successful inquiry.
- Collaborate with classroom teachers to co-teach whenever possible.
- Align the implementation of the Continuum with your school's goals and your students' needs.
- Collaborate with your administrator to integrate the teaching and learning in the library with the principles and practice of teaching and learning throughout the school.

Empire State Information Fluency Continuum K-12 Priority Benchmark Skills

Developed by the New York City School Library System

The information and inquiry skills required for in-depth learning

Empire State Priority Benchmark Skills for Information Fluency and Inquiry

Inquiry is a fundamental building block of teaching and learning that empowers students to follow their sense of wonder into new discoveries and insights about the way the world works. The empowered learner calls upon information/inquiry skills to connect with what he or she knows, ask intriguing questions about what is not known, investigate the answers, construct new understandings, and communicate to share those understandings with others.

Students need to use the skills of inquiry to learn. The Cycle of Inquiry and Learning provides a framework for active learning and the formation of new understandings.

The information and inquiry skills required for in-depth learning must follow a coherent development spiral of instruction and practice throughout the years of schooling, K–12 and beyond, to enable all of our children to become independent learners.

A collaborative approach by the librarian and the classroom teacher is the most effective way to teach information fluency/inquiry skills and strategies.

Qı	uestion:
	Can your question be answered by research?
✓	Is this a topic that someone would have written about? If yes, why do you think so?
✓	Will there be facts as well as opinions about this topic?
	Will your question lead to an interesting inquiry investigation?
✓	Am I interested in the topic?
✓	Does the question go beyond a yes/no answer?
✓	Is the question complex enough to require information beyond a few simple facts to answer it?
✓	Does the question lead to investigating multiple points of view?
	How could you revise the question to make it answerable and more interesting?

Online Catalog

Catalog Search	Description	Strategy/Search Results
Author	Use this search to find all works written by an author. An author may be a person or an organization.
Title	Use this search when you know all or part of a title.
Author/title combination	Use this search when you have all of this information.
Keyword	Keywords are words occurring in author names, titles, subject headings, publisher names or contents notes of catalog records. Use this all-purpose search when you are not sure which subject to use or other searches don't produce needed results.
Subject	Use this "controlled vocabulary" search to find works about a topic or an author.
Call Number	Each unique work in the catalog has its own call number. Call numbers are created by the library and printed on item labels. Because of the way they are structured, they bring works on the same topic or by the same author together, so that you can browse library shelves to find related sources.

Directions: Understanding text often involves being able to tell the difference between fact and opinion. Often writers will mix fact and opinion, and it becomes the job of the reader to sort them out.

Facts are objective (i.e., the can be proven).

Opinions are subjective (i.e., they express a preference or bias).

Perform all research necessary to understand that one subtopic

Process for Selecting a Topic

- Read all available information on the main topic. Why? When you read, you will learn about terms or words and subtopics (issues that are related to your main topic).
- Choose the subtopic that not only most interests you but also has ample information.
- During and after your reading, write down questions that were not completely answered by your studies and/or readings or questions that arise from interest in the topic.

Process for Selecting Search Engines

Identifying Key Words, Concepts, Synonyms and Related Terms

Effective researchers use a strategy of broadening their search for information by identifying key words, concepts, synonyms, and related terms. You can find these alternative search terms by consulting an overview article in a magazine or encyclopedia, a thesaurus, a dictionary, search engines, and subject headings in the library catalog. You should start this process as soon as you decide on a topic or research question and continue to build your list throughout your inquiry.

Related Terms (Words that are closely associated with key words, but not substitutes like synonyms)		Ex: climate change, earth's atmosphere		Related Terms
Synonyms (Words that mean the same as your key words)	York City during the 21st century?	Ex: earth temperature, greenhouse effect		Synonyms
Concepts (Words that describe the big ideas to which your topic is related)	Example Topic/Question: How will global warming affect life in New York City during the 21st century?	Ex: ecological system, environment		Concepts
Key Words (Words that convey the main ideas of your topic or questions)	Example Topic/Question: How w	Ex: global warming, climate, greenhouse gases, solar radiation	Your Topic/Question:	Key Words

Mind Mapping

Mind Mapping is a method of creating a visual image that communicates a big idea, supporting ideas, and relationships among ideas. Researchers use mind maps to brainstorm a picture of their inquiry topic, to figure out the aspects of the topic that are most interesting or open to inquiry, and to think through definitions, examples, causes, effects, and questions.

What does a mind map look like?

A mind map has an image of the main idea in the center, with 5-10 ideas that relate to the main idea revolving around the center, but connected by lines labeled with words that express the relationship between the two ideas.

For example, a mind map of the "Life of a Soldier in the American Civil War" might have an image of a soldier's cap in the center, with ideas like "boy soldiers," "food and supplies," "weaponry," "life in the camps," and "fighting" surrounding the center image.

Process for Creating a Mind Map

- 1. In the center of your paper or screen, draw a symbol or image that represents the main idea.
- 2. Draw branches from the main idea to 5-10 subtopics that you have gathered from prior knowledge or background information. The subtopics can be expressed as words or images.
- 3. Label the branch lines with descriptive words or verbs to express the relationship between the ideas.
- 4. You may decide to extend the mind map by brainstorming smaller topics that relate to each subtopic.
- 5. You can use color, different types of print or graphics, and variations in size to ensure that your main ideas and relationships are clear.
- 6. Be creative! This is a chance to clarify an overall picture of your inquiry topic and figure out what you want to research in more detail.

Organizing Information -- Example

Discovered Patterns: The financial costs of World War I lead to poor monetary decision worldwide based on politics and revenge rather than sound economics. At the same time, the lack of financial regulation worldwide and the decision to stick with the gold standard, lead to speculation in the US resulting in the Stock Market Crash and subsequent financial shocks around the globe.

Use the checklist below to evaluate your range of questions. Do your questions as a group satisfy the following criteria?

CRITERIA FOR GOOD RESEARCH QUESTIONS:	YES	NO
Narrow and specific enough to be explored thoroughly for this assignment. [ex: What was the role of the French Underground during World War II?]
Deep enough that you will need multiple sources to answer them.
[ex: What is the impact of cyberbullying on society?]
Complex enough that they require multiple points of view.
[ex: How do attitudes toward gun control influence public policy?]
Balanced between fact and interpretation – questions require factual evidence and yet offer the opportunity for interpreting the evidence, forming opinions, and drawing conclusions. [ex: Why should we care about global warming?]
Structured around different levels of thought (not only who, what, when, where questions, but also how, why, what caused, and what if questions). [What were the circumstances surrounding the Emancipation Proclamation? How did the Emancipation Proclamation affect the country and people of the time?]
Varied enough to elicit the richness of the topic. [ex: Questions that ask causes, effects, recommendations, solutions, points of view]

Revise your questions so that your group of questions together satisfies each of the criteria.

Selecting Complex Research Problems or Questions

Use the following process to identify a problem or question within a broad topic that:

- Has multiple answers, or
- Has no clear "right" answer.

PROCESS FOR SELECTING A COMPLEX PROBLEM OR QUESTION TO RESEARCH

PF	ROCESS	YOUR RESEARCH PROBLEM/QUESTION
1.	What is your broad topic area ? [Ex: 1920's]
2.	Read background information to gain an overall understanding of your broad topic and identify aspects that are controversial or complex enough to merit different perspectives. [Prohibition, Economic Overextension, Organized Crime, Role of Women]
3.	Pick one controversial aspect that interests you. Identify the different perspectives on that issue. For each, list who holds the perspective and what that point of view is. [Prohibition. Law enforcement – maintaining a civil society; Temperance movement – save families; Organized crime – profit; Common citizens – Rights vs. Family values]
4.	Predict the availability of information on all the perspectives you listed. Will you be able to find credible, authoritative information for each perspective?
5.	Look carefully at the controversial issue you have identified. If it still seems to be a viable topic for research, then identify the underlying problem or question that you will address. [How did the intended and unintended consequences of Prohibition affect society in the 1920's?]

Learning Logs for Reflective Notetaking

Notes	Reactions
Learning logs can be used any time you are responsible for writing down information (from library sources, interviews, lecture notes).	Reactions can include:     Personal comments or feelings about the information (I think companies that dump toxic waste should be heavily fined);
Write notes in your own words in the left column and react to those notes in the right column.	<ul> <li>Challenges to the text (This seems to be heavily biased toward the perspective of the industrial companies);</li> <li>Questions of the text (Why doesn't the author</li> </ul>
The purpose of a learning log is to help you learn to challenge ideas in the text and interact mentally and emotionally with your notes. You will learn more while you are taking notes by confronting and questioning the ideas that you read or hear.	<ul> <li>provide believable evidence to back up his opinions);</li> <li>Questions for further research (What are the laws on toxic-waste dumping?);</li> <li>Notes about organization (Use this in intro);</li> <li>Connections to previous knowledge (Toxic-waste dumping is worse than oil spills because it's intentional).</li> </ul>

Concept Maps for Organizing Thinking

A concept map is a visual representation of main ideas and relationships among those ideas. Concept mapping is a thinking strategy for finding patterns in the information you have gathered during your research and organizing your conclusions for presentation and sharing.

The concept map often looks like a spider web, with nodes of main ideas connected by arrows, lines, or symbols to show how the main ideas are related. For example, if you have found that global warming is causing the melting of Arctic ice, then a portion of your concept map might look like this:

How to Create a Concept Map:

- 1. Focus
  - Identify the main concept of your research topic or question.
- 2. Select
  - Select the key ideas that you discovered through your research.
- 3. Categorize and Cluster
  - Categorize the key ideas and group the categories that are related into larger ideas, or clusters. [Ex: melting of Arctic ice, flooding, drought clustered under Effects of Global Warming]
- 4. Organize by Pattern / Draw Conclusions
  - Look for patterns that will show the relationships between your clusters of ideas. This is the most creative and thoughtful phase of your research because you will be able to draw conclusions based on the patterns you see. For example, does it make the most sense to organize the clusters in a chronological sequence? In a cause and effect pattern? In order of importance?
- 5. Arrange in a visual display
  - Place the main concept in a prominent place so that the supporting ideas can be connected to it (center, left side).
  - Arrange the clusters of ideas according to the pattern you have selected in order to show your conclusions (for example, a chronological sequence may be laid out left-to-right).
  - Connect the clusters with lines and arrows (and perhaps words) that show how the ideas are related.
  - Fill out the concept map with your supporting ideas/evidence.

Inquiry Process Questions

Students should reflect throughout their inquiry experience in order to self-regulate their progress through this recursive process (see the following excerpt from the New York City Information Fluency Continuum).

INQUIRY PHASE: CONNECT

At the beginning of the Connect Phase, a student may ask:

- ➤ What interests me about this idea or topic?
- ➤ What do I already know or think I know about this topic?
- ➤ What background information would help me get an overview of my topic?

Before moving to the Wonder Phase, a student may ask:

- ➤ Do I know enough about the idea or topic to ask good questions?
- ➤ Am I interested enough in the idea or topic to investigate it?

INQUIRY PHASE: WONDER

At the beginning of the Wonder Phase, a student may ask:

- ➤ What intriguing questions do I have about the topic or idea?
- ➤ Why am I doing this research?

INTRODUCTION

Alignment of Common Core Learning Standards and Empire State Information Fluency Continuum

Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS)

The Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) provide a P-12 framework of standards for literacy and math and a 6-12 framework for literacy in history / social studies, science, and technical subjects. They are designed to ensure that all students are ready for college and career when they graduate.

Empire State Information Fluency Continuum (IFC)

The Empire State Information Fluency Continuum (IFC) is a K-12 framework of the information and inquiry skills and strategies that are required for in-depth learning. The IFC was designed by the NYC school library community to ensure that all students develop the skills and responsibilities to become independent learners, able to pursue both academic and personal interests. It is organized around three standards:

- Standard 1: Using Inquiry to Build Understanding and Create New Knowledge
- Standard 2: Pursuing Personal and Aesthetic Growth
- Standard 3: Demonstrating Social Responsibility

Alignment Between CCLS and IFC

An analysis of the Common Core Learning Standards for Literacy and the Empire State Information Fluency Continuum shows very strong alignment between them. They are both designed to prepare students for success in college and career.

From Alignment to Strategic and Phased Implementation

The alignment documents you will find in this section open up new opportunities for sustained collaborative planning and teaching between librarians and classroom teachers. The implementation, however, must be strategic and phased. We cannot, and should not, try to move faster than we can be effective.

Librarians must be an essential part of the implementation effort.

- Start with the three literacy standards named.
- Figure out the embedded information fluency skills.
- Collaborate with classroom teachers in your school to develop instruction that teaches and enables students to practice those skills in the context of classroom content.
- Use and adapt the formative assessments of the IFC to capture student work, so that you can analyze students' development of the skills and provide additional instruction and practice when necessary.

The Alignment Framework in this Section

In this section, you will find:

- "Common Core College and Career Readiness Skills Learned Through the School Library Instructional Program"-- An overview of the library's role in supporting college and career readiness.
- Grade-by-grade alignments of the Common Core Learning Standards and the Information Fluency Continuum, organized under the Common Core strands of Reading Standards for Literature, Reading Standards for Informational Text, Standards for Writing, and Standards for Speaking and Listening.
- Grades 6-12 alignments of the CCLS Reading and Writing Standards for Literacy in History / Social Studies and the IFC.
- Grades 6-12 alignments of the CCLS Reading and Writing Standards for Literacy in Science and Technical Subjects and the IFC.
- Tags of the major skills in the Common Core which can be applied to items in the library's collection that are particularly useful for Common Core instruction in the classroom or library.

Common Core College and Career Readiness Skills Learned Through the School Library Instructional Program

The three standards of the Empire State Information Fluency Continuum (IFC)* address key attributes of college and career readiness:

STANDARD 1: Using Inquiry to Build Understanding and Create New Knowledge

STANDARD 2: Pursuing Personal and Aesthetic Growth STANDARD 3: Demonstrating Social Responsibility

College and Career Readiness Capacities – in Common Core New York State Standards	The School Librarian instructs students to achieve these standards:
Students demonstrate independence.	School librarians teach information fluency – the critical thinking, literacy, inquiry, and technology skills that enable students to pursue their academic learning and personal interests and passions through books, media, and the digital environment. Information fluency skills are the Common Core skills that lead to independent and self-directed learning.
Students build strong content knowledge.	School librarians teach students how to dive deeply into content and conduct continuous, rigorous research by brainstorming essential questions, investigating multiple sources and viewpoints on a topic, making meaning of the information in their own words, and synthesizing it to obtain new understandings and applications.
Students respond to the varying demands of audience, task, purpose, and discipline.	School librarians collaborate with teachers to design assignments that meet students' differentiated needs and engage them in active learning and the creation of authentic products, in a variety of formats, aimed at different audiences and purposes.
Students comprehend as well as critique.	School librarians teach students literacy strategies of reading with meaning, evaluating evidence, finding the main idea and supporting details, forming opinions, and drawing conclusions.
Students value evidence.	School librarians teach students to assess evidence from diverse sources, both secondary and primary, based on point of view, context, relevance, accuracy, and authority in order for them to form opinions, construct lines of argument, and support their own thinking with valid evidence.
Students use technology and digital media strategically and capably.	School librarians teach students how to use sophisticated search strategies to locate and evaluate information, how to be safe and responsible online and with social media through a comprehensive Digital Citizenship curriculum, and how to be successful in using various technology tools, software, and hardware as a natural part of their research and learning process.
Students come to understand other perspectives and cultures.	School librarians strategically build and promote a print and digital collection that encompasses divergent viewpoints, cultures, and experiences and teach students that it is their responsibility to seek multiple points of view and a global perspective.

The CCLS and IFC Alignment from Theory to Practice: A Sample of the Process

The Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) for Literacy establish a framework to ensure that all students graduate college and career ready. The skills and strategies articulated in the Empire State Information Fluency Continuum (IFC) are aligned with the CCLS and open up opportunities for Librans and teachers to engage in instruction, project based learning and the implementation of the Common Core Learning Standards. The following process and accompanying student work illustrate how the CCLS and IFC work together to help students learn how to write an opinion based on an analysis of informational text (CCLS Writing Standard 1). The following process and accompanying student work illustrate how the CCLS and IFC work together to help students learn how to write an opinion based on an analysis of informational text.

Step 1: Start by identifying a Common Core Learning Standard

For example, a Common Core Learning Standard for grade 5 is Writing

Standard W.5.1: Write opinion pieces on topics or texts supporting a point of view with reasons and information.

- a) Introduce a topic or text clearly, state an opinion, and create an organization structure in which related ideas are logically grouped to support the writer's purpose.
- b) Provide logically ordered reasons that are supported by facts and details.
- c) Link opinion and reasons using words, phrases, and clauses (e.g., consequently, specifically).
- d) Provide a concluding statement or section related to the opinion presented.

Step 2: Determine the embedded Information Fluency Skill.

In order to be able to master the CCLS standard, students will learn how to support an opinion with reason and information. IFC Standard 1 includes the following Priority Benchmark Skills: "Forms opinion and uses evidence from text to back it up." Clearly, this IFC Priority Benchmark Skill aligns with parts a and b of the Common Core standard above.

Step 3: Collaborate with classroom teachers to develop instruction that teaches and enables students to practice the identified skill in the context of classroom content.

Step 4: Use and adapt an IFC formative assessment to capture student work to analyze students' development of the skills and provide additional instruction and practice when necessary.

Formative assessment 5.7 (Using Evidence to Suppose Opinions) is included for use in the IFC. A modified version of this assessment was used in the sample lesson included here.

Next Steps: Return to the Common Core Standard.

To accomplish parts C and D or Common Core Writing Standard W.5.1, guide students thought the following:

- Use the graphic organizer to develop a paragraph that starts with a clear introduction of their topic and a clearly started opinion.
- Provide facts and details, drawn from the text, to support their opinions.
- · Link opinions and reasons.
- Develop a concluding statement related to the stated opinion.

In continued collaboration with the classroom teacher, use the IFC graphic Organizer as a starting point for additional lessons including strategies and practice for refining opinion statements.

Necessary Prior Knowledge: Sections of the library

Grade Level: 5

Lesson Duration: Two class periods – One for Mini lesson and Guided Practice, one for Independent Practice and Sharing/Reflection.

Lesson Outcomes: The student will know and be able to form an opinion about a book based on facts and details from that book.

Common Core Writing Standard W.5.1:

Write opinion pieces on topics or texts supporting a points of view with reasons and information.

- a) Introduce a topic or text clearly, state an opinion, and create an organization structure in which related ideas are logically grouped to support the writer's purpose.
- b) Provide logically ordered reasons that are supported by facts and details.
- c) Link opinion and reasons using words, phrases, and clauses (e.g., consequently, specifically).
- d) Provide a concluding statement or section related to the opinion presented.
